It is clear that language is used for more than one purpose. The man who hits his thumb. Nail with a hammer and utter a string of curses is using language to relieve his feeling and needs no audience but himself. But when the philosopher uses language, to clarify his ideas on a subject, he is using it as an instrument of thought. When two women gossip over the fence, or two men exchange greetings as they pass in the street, language is being used to strengthen the bonds between the members of a society. Language, it seems, is a multipurpose instrument. One function; however, seems to be basic : language enables us to influence people's behaviour, and thereby makes human cooperation possible. Some animals cooperate, especially the social animals like bees and ants; but human cooperation is more thorough, more detailed, more effective than the found anywhere in the animal kingdom. This human cooperation would be unthinkable without language.

Questions :

- (i) Why is language called a multipurpose instrument ?
- (ii) What are the purposes for which language is used ?

- (iii) What is the basic function of language ?
- (iv) How is human cooperation different from cooperation among bees and ants ?
- (v) How does a philosopher use language ?
