4. (A) Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions based on it : 5
- Of man's earliest inventions we know very little. The first may have been the use of a stone to crack a nut. The next was possibly the we of a stick to strike an enemy. Once man found that sticks and stones were useful, it was only a step further to the making of a crude weapon by fastening a stone to the end of a stick man used sticks and stones long before he dared to middle with fire. For the early men like all wild creatures dicaded the fire. Fire of course existed; for lightning must sometimes have set the forests ablaze just as it does today and in those days volcanoes were much more active than they are now. The forgotten hero who first dared to fame fire to his own use was the greatest of early inventors; for once man had fire he was master of all lower creatures.

Questions :

- (i) What was the man's earliest invention ?
- (ii) What was the man's next invention ?
- (iii) Why didn't man farm fire as early as he came to know the use of sticks and stones ?
- (iv) Who was the greatest of early inventors ?
- (v) Record your view of early invention.

The State Vs. Jasbir Singh/Billa and Kuljeet Singh/Ranga, commonly known as the Ranga-Billa case, shook India in 1978. The case involved the brutal kidnapping, rape and murder of two siblings, Geeta and Sanjay Chopra. The accused, Jasbir Singh and Kuljeet Singh, alias Ranga and Billa respectively; were notorious criminals. Their arrest sparked public outrage as the gruesome nature of the crime captured national attention. The trial proceedings were closely followed by the media, highlighting flaws in the investigation and raising concerns about witness protection. Despite intense scrutiny both Ranga and Billa were convicted and sentenced to death. The case became a symbol of the need for judicial reform and stricter measures against heinous crimes.

Questions :
